For years, there has been word of a new residential development coming to 155 West 18th Street in Chelsea. Now that's finally been confirmed by two new renderings and a promotional video for The Flynn, the 11-story building which will rise between Sixth and Seventh avenues. The Flynn will be designed by ODA New York and is being developed by IGI-USA. The building will have 30 condos, including four duplex penthouses and two garden units. A teaser site is already live, sales are set to be launched by CORE in December, and the building itself will be ready for occupancy by mid-2016.

The renderings are accompanied by a fun and snappy 15-second teaser video, which is a prelude to a longer video yet to come. Stay tuned.
