

RENDERING FOR 11-STORY, 30-UNIT MIXED-USE PROJECT AT 155 WEST 18TH STREET, CHELSEA

By Reid Wilson
November 11, 2015

155 West 18th Street, photo by Wade Zimmerman

Earlier this month, YIMBY brought you a construction update on the 11-story, 30-unit condominium project at 155 West 18th Street, in southern Chelsea, and now Curbed has the first full rendering of the project, as well as news that it has been dubbed The Flynn. As previously reported, the building is now topped-out and receiving its cladding. Completion is expected in mid-2016, and the sales launch is planned for this December. IGI-USA is the developer, and ODA-Architecture is designing.

The development will have 30 condominiums, including four duplex penthouses and two garden units.

NEW YORK
YIMBY

Rendering by MARCH